RUPERT'S LAND CAREGIVER SERVICES

PRESENTS

"I'm Very Unsettled By Things... What Should I Do Now?"

In caring for family members or clients, we often encounter ethical situations where we might ask ourselves: "What should I do now?" or "Are We Doing the Right Thing?" We may feel unsettled; others might experience moral uncertainty; some will experience ethical concerns or challenges as dilemmas; while others still, in addition to feeling the stresses of care giving, may feel moral distress as they navigate difficult circumstances with loved ones or professional care providers. In reflecting about these experiences, we may never use the word "ethics".

This workshop will explore:

- (i) how we often experience ethical concerns and
- (ii) offer some approaches to navigate these difficult situations.

Facilitator: Dr. George C. Webster – Clinical Ethicist

George C. Webster has worked as a Clinical Ethicist with the Health Care Ethics Service at St. Boniface General Hospital since 1997, where he is engaged in ethics consultation, ethics education, policy development and review, and research ethics..
